third man, Mr. Throckmorcon preferred the State Dairy and Food Commissioner, and Mr. Cox, the patren of the opposing bill, desired the State Health Commissioner. In either event, it will be seen, the final decision will rest with a State officer, but the cities do not seem to object, under all the circumstances. It was left with the subcommittee having the matter in clearge, which will report later.

The Bell bill prescribing a four-year term between local option elections, instead of two years as at present, was reported favorably to the House after it had been amended so as not to affect places where elections have been held within the past two years.

The House passed the Richmond charter bill.

HOUSE

There being no opposition in either thouse. The state's said Dr. T. S. Palmer, of the Biological Survey of the artiment of Agriculture, at Washon, would bring into the game I annually $10,000. He based his mates on the returns made by other es, notably Alabama, which has rely adopted the law. He thought the lineome from license fees aid be more than enough to pay expenses of the game commissioner, and would, besides, take maintenance of the office, and leave a substantial surplus every t, which might be devoted to any pose the State saw fit.

If but fourteen States, said Dr. mer, have adopted a general game like the one proposed. It is they practicable arrangement, since it case the tax where it properly begs—upon the hunter himself. Dr. mer told of the rapid exhaustion of State's game resources by heavy pments into the large Eastern cities, short speech in lavor of the measures was made by Dr. R. L.
